Location: Wintergreen's Devils Knob Golf Course is situated at the resort's highest point on the mountain. Wintergreen Resort is just southwest of Charlottesville, minutes from the Blue Ridge Parkway, less than two hours from Richmond and three hours from Washington, D.C.

Opening Date: 1976

Course Architect: Ellis Maples, Dan Maples

Renovation: John LaFoy (2004)

Play Policy: Resort, open from spring through fall, weather permitting

Description: Perched atop the Blue Ridge Mountains, an elevation of 3,850 feet not only makes Devils Knob the highest golf course in Virginia, but provides majestic, 50-mile views of the Shenandoah and Rockfish Valleys.

Demanding accuracy from tee to green, what Devils Knob lacks in length, it makes up for with difficulty. Tight doglegs, sloped fairways and devilishly sloped greens create a challenge from start to finish. Ranked as one of Virginia's best courses, the thin air provides some extra carry on most golf shots and the altitude creates an escape from the summer heat, normally keeping mid-day temperature in the 70s and 80s.

Devils Knob Golf Course is exclusive to registered overnight Wintergreen Resort guests, Wintergreen Resort Members and their guests.

Superintendent: Fred Biggers, CGCS

History: Course designer Ellis Maples, renowned in his own right, was a member of the legendary Maples golf family. Devils Knob is the first course he and son Dan Maples worked on together. Built largely on rock formations, Devils Knob features numerous natural stone outcroppings that give it a unique character. While the course has remained a solid test of golf for three decades, in 2004 golf architect John LaFoy refined the bunkering without affecting the original design.
