

DEVILS KNOB GOLF COURSE
Hole by Hole Description

No. 1    Par 4    Blue 411                      White 378                      Gold 344                      Red 300

This gentle dogleg right offers ample landing space away from the fairway bunker on the corner. The fairway drops downhill to a small green flanked by bunkers. A subtle tier creates a rise in the green, front to back.

No. 2    Par 4    Blue 392                      White 364                      Gold 356                      Red 314

Straightaway from the tee through dense tree lines, the fairway is pinched by bunkering on both sides. A tricky, elongated green is a narrow target that slopes down in front and back, with bunkering on each side.

No. 3    Par 4    Blue 520                      White 484                      Gold 459                      Red 244

Downhill to a wide landing area, the fairways drops around this dogleg right, then abruptly moves uphill the final 50 yards, forcing a full carry to the green. Bunkering blocks the right side of the softly sloped green.

No. 4    Par 3    Blue 160                      White 138                      Gold 124                      Red 86

While a swale creates the appearance of a slightly uphill shot, the tee and target are on virtually the same elevation plane. An imposing front bunker guards a double-tier green with a dramatic, side-to-side ridge.

No. 5    Par 5    Blue 487                      White 447                      Gold 438                      Red 376

Straightaway, mostly downhill and reachable in two, the green is visible from the tee in this picturesque setting. A late rise uphill to the green can deaden long approaches, but is not a troublesome carry for shorter shots in.

No. 6    Par 3    Blue 194                      White 179                      Gold 160                      Red 127

Tucked into a thick, natural canopy, the green offers an inviting entrance from the tee. A large, front-right bunker can be a complication, while the green rises slightly at its center, with a drop-off to the right.

No. 7    Par 5    Blue 585                      White 530                      Gold 508                      Red 429

Long and relentless, an intimidating tee shot over a holding pond must carry up to 200 yards. The fairway climbs uphill and turns left. Farther up, creek crosses the fairway, but there is room to the green, which is also fronted by bunkers. The putting surface slopes down to the right and from back to front.

No. 8    Par 3    Blue 200                      White 166                      Gold 129                      Red 118

A full carry must cross a large pond that covers the final 80 yards, with only a deep bunker between the water and the front edge of the green. Anything left or long can slide down into a creek that circles the green.

No. 9    Par 4    Blue 485                      White 403                      Gold 335                      Red 206

A bending dogleg right, uphill from tee to green, the fairway slopes down toward the left treeline. A false front drops back into a swale in front of the two-tier green, which adds elevation factors to most putts.

Front    Par 35    Blue 3434                      White 3089                      Gold 2853                      Red 2200

No. 10 Par 5 Blue 571 White 547 Gold 472 Red 406

Initially straight, the fairway drifts slightly downhill right, guarded by bunkers. Reaching the green in two is chancy and ultimately the creek that cuts across fairway, some 70 yards out, dictates the plan of attack.

No. 11 Par 4 Blue 392 White 350 Gold 339 Red 281

From an elevated tee complex, the opening shot must be slotted into a dogleg right that swerves virtually 90 degrees to the right, then up to an elevated green. A ridge creates a two-tier green, rising front to back.

No. 12 Par 4 Blue 354 White 329 Gold 314 Red 246

The elevated tee provides a wide view down the hill to the landing area, which sits in the start of an uphill ridge that runs up to a small, double-deck green, with a bunkering on both sides.

No. 13 Par 4 Blue 370 White 328 Gold 298 Red 238

From a chute overlooking a long swale, the fairway quickly opens as it rises to the start of a dogleg left. The route runs downhill to the green, guarded by one left-side bunker and two deeper bunkers on the right.

No. 14 Par 4 Blue 374 White 357 Gold 342 Red 285

The back of the elevated tee offers one of the most memorable vistas at Wintergreen, where miles of the mountain ranges are in view from every direction. The fairways starts through a chute into the bend of a rising dogleg left, and then drops downhill to the green, which rises from front to back.

No. 15 Par 3 Blue 185 White 166 Gold 125 Red 104

Amid rugged rock formations, the tees are set atop the highest point of the golf course –3,850 feet, creating the highest golf hole in Virginia. One large bunker is curled up a deceiving 20 yards in front of the large round green. There is extra room on the right side of the green, but tree trouble on the left.

No. 16 Par 4 Blue 417 White 391 Gold 348 Red 280

More vast views complement the tee shot, which is dramatically downhill, creating an elevation change that helps tee shots hang in the air longer than normal. A wide bunker is stationed front left of the green, which is low in the front and rises steadily to the back.

No. 17 Par 3 Blue 185 White 179 Gold 177 Red 114

Downhill from the tee complex, a small pond stretches across the line to the green, where a false front draws short shots back toward the water. A huge bunker runs along the left and space beyond the green is limited.

No. 18 Par 4 Blue 430 White 387 Gold 357 Red 289

The elevated tees lead down into a dogleg right, where a long bunker on the corner is tempting to carry. A safer lay into the turn sets up an open, uphill approach to the narrow green, which is low in front, rising to the back.

Back Par 35 Blue 3278 White 3034 Gold 2772 Red 2243

Overall Par 70 Blue 6712 White 6123 Gold 5625 Red 4443
